

Kathy Marshall, Chief Financial Officer
Washington State Department of Social & Health Services

Meet Kathy Marshall

Kathy Marshall began her career with DSHS in 1979 in the Division of Juvenile Rehabilitation. She currently serves as the Chief Financial Officer for the Department. Most of her time at DSHS has been with the Aging and Disability Services Administration.

In 1988 Kathy left her position with DSHS as the manager of the Nursing Home Rates Section and moved to the non-profit sector to serve as the chief operating officer for the Washington Association of Housing and Services for the Aging. She returned to DSHS in 2001, after 13 years with the Association, to begin her time as director of the Management Services Division for ADSA, a position she has held for nine years.

Kathy has a master's degree in public administration from the University of Oregon, a master's degree in theology from Fuller Theological Seminary, and a bachelor's degree in sociology from Western Washington University.
